A BURGLAR BAGGED.

The Mystery of the Burdette Robbery Cleared Up. The grand jury yesterday indicted Michael burglary and lareeny in entering the dry goods store of W. W. Burdette and taking away sixtyeight pieces of silk and satin, eight uisters, and four dolmans. A bench-warrant was issued and placed in the hands of Detective McDevitt, who | ford and his mission.

left last night for New York, where Kurtz is now in custody. The prisoner is well known to the authorities here as an expert silk robber, as they have had him twice on that charge. The record of his first | burglary in Washington, as shown by the book at Police Headquarters, is as follows:

"No. 142. Henry Miller, real name Michael Kurtz, thief and burglar, arrested January 15, 1873, for the robbery of Shusters' store: sentenced to eighteen months in the Albany penitentiary, April Kurlz's companions in this job were Patrick Smith and James Carroll, alias Adams, both of Smith and James Carroll, alias Adams, both of whom were sentenced for the same period. After serving his time at Albany, Kurtz went to Boston, Mass., where, early in 1877, he plundered a large dry goods store, and escaped with the proceeds. He came to Washington the 4th of March, the day of President Hayes' inauguration, and while on the Avanua was avested by Delegites McDevitt. the Avenue was arrested by Detectives McDevitt and McElfresh as a suspicious enaracter. Learning that he was wanted in Boston, these officers victed and sentenced to the State's prison for twelve years. He was pardoned about three months ago, and immediately went back to his old profession. He is regarded as one of the most ex-pert burglars in the country and willing to take perate chances to "work a dry goods store." Impaled on an Iron Feuce. Lucy Thomas, a colored woman employed as a servant in the house No. 1020 New York avenue, while washing the glass in a bay window, lost her footing and jumped forward to escape a fall into a deep area. JOHNSON'S DEFENSE.

LAWYER COOK'S STRANGE THEORY

That the Defendant's Mind Was Affected by the Hirth Murder-And He Shot the Colored Johnson While Under the Influence of Unusual Excitement.

The second week of the trial of John S. M. John son, charged with the murder of James E. Johnson, was commenced before Justice James in the Crim inal Court yesterday morning. Mr. Perry stated that it would be at least a week before Colonel Corkhill would be able to appear in His honor hoped that no objection would be made to proceeding with the case on that account. Messrs. Williams and Cook both answered, "Cer-The witness, Richard A. Norris, was called and the cross-examination resumed. "Did you not state," began Mr. Perry, "at the oroner's inquest, held on the 30th day of March, 1880, at a house on Samson street northwest, in the city of Washington, D. C., to Dr. Dewitt Patterson, chy of Washington, D. C., to Dr. Dewitt Patterson, the coroner, or in his presence, as follows: 'John-son looked back and said, these colored men are following us. "I don't exactly know, sir," answered the wit-"What do you mean by that answer?" asked Mr. Perry, "I don't exactly know whether I said it or not," replied the witness.

"Bo you mean that you don't recollect it?"
pressed Mr. Perry.
"I do," responded Norris.
"I would like you to refresh your memory and see if you cannot remember it." said Mr. Perry.
"I cannot recollect," insisted the witness.
"Did you then and there, and on the occasion of the inquest," again put in Mr. Perry, "state to the coroner, or in his presence, as follows: 'Johnson wanted to go back, but Pierce did not want him to go, and begged him not to go." Colonel Cook objected, on the ground that if there was a statement made and taken down it should be presented.

Mr. Perry said that where the witness swore to a paper the latter doubtless must be presented; but where he made a statement which was taken down at the time, then it was not requisite; but he had no objection to the witness seeing and reading the paper, and it was shown to him. While reading it Colonel Cook objected because it was not the original testimony taken by the

Mr. Perry stated that he had the testimony taken by the coroner, The Republican, and the Post, and he intended to question the witness in The court held that he could be questioned about the testimony given by him without having been shown the coroner's notes. An exception

Mr. Perry then continued to question the witness as to what he testified to before the coroner's jury, but obtained no further satisfaction than the replies, "I don't exactly know," or "I don't recollect." THE HIETH MURDER. Mr. E. A. Barnard was examined, and testified that he resided in January, 1880, at 1413 S street northwest. "Do you remember the murder of George P. Hirth?" asked Colonel Cook. "I object," interjected Mr. Perry, "on the ground that it is irrelevant."

"It is only introducing," answered the Colonel; and he then went on to say that by this evidence they proposed to show that in January, 1880,

George P. Hirth kept a store quite near to the place where Johnson was shot by this defendant. On his way from that store Hirth was cruelly murdered. That murder produced a wide, extended excitement in that neighborhood; that it was a moral shock to the community in that locality; that it startled, alarmed, and terrified the people living in the neighborhood; that the excitement arising from it was so great as to affect the minds of program PURE NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL

In fact, he became the victim of that excitement, so that his mind, weak and imbecile, not only from natural but hereditary causes, was affected by it. It preyed upon his mind when he walked the streets and on the night of the shooting. It was tossed like as by a hurricane as he came by the tossed like as by a hurricane as he came by the Hirth store, saw the colored men following, and it was then that the shooting was done. They laid it down as one of the indisputable facts that the mind was not in a normal condition, but abnormal: that the mind was in an insane state, produced by the excitement from the Hirth murder, and further aggravated by the belief that these colored men were following the defendant, and while in that condition the shooting was done. He was prepared to support his position by authorities

His honor expressed a wish to see them.

Mr. Perry said that he had no objection to the introduction of the testimony if he was permitted to contradict and show that, if an excitement existed among the white people, there was a per-fect panic among the colored. His honor stated that the point just mentioned had not yet been reached.

Colonel Cook thought that it would be time enough to find out how much panic there was when

Mr. Williams then proposed in writing the points already verbally set forth, and a lengthy argument ensued as to its relevancy. His honor overruled the point so far as it was the intention to show the public excitement and beliefs at the time of the Hirth murder, but allowed the defense to show the effect of that murder on the defendant's mind, and his conduct in connection therewith. The witness then testified that he was not acquainted with and did not know Mr. Hirth. He remembered a gentleman of that name being murdered, but did not see him. He knew where Hirth's store was, and was pretty well acquainted in that neighborhood.

Continued Excitement Across the River-Yesterday's Developments. The excitement growing out of the robbery of graves in two of the cemeteries in Alexandria was not abated yesterday morning; it was increased by the announcement that Charles Chapman, colored, the driver of a wagon similar to that described as having came for the bodies, had been arrested. When Thomas Vaughan, Albert Butler. and Baptist Carpenter were taken from the jail the streets were full of people and the square about the station-house packed, the majority of the spectators being colored. As a matter of precaution guards were stationed on the stairs leading to the mayor's office, and they were kept busy in holding back the crowd. Mayor Smith and Justices Whittlesey and Thompson conducted the investigation, first, however examining Chapman's wagon, which had been brought and placed in the street in front of Mr. Rafferty was the first witness called, and recognized the pants brought from the boarding-house of Butler as a pair that he had sold to him.

Albert and myself unscrewed the top and taken out the body, and laid her head toward the foot of the grave; left her dress rumpled around her waist. We then went into the new grounds, and taken up the body of a colored girl; he then asked me if I knew who the girl was, and I told him no; he then told me'I will tell you some other time.' We then left the grave and went down the lane to my house. I carried the shovel and spade, and he carried the prong hoe. He then left my house and stated that the wagon would be here about 10 o'clock; he returned soon after and I told him the devil was to pay; that Mr. Webb had scared the parties with the wagon off; he then ran away from my house and I did not see him any more until I saw him at the station-house. The citizens of North Washington met in massmeeting last night in the market sheds, on Corcoran Square, to consider the proviso in the pending District appropriation bill, reported to the House, which proposes to demolish the market and use the ground for a high school building. The meeting was largely attended, and organized by electing the following officers: President, S. Norment; vice presidents, R. C. Hewitt, S. S. Henkle, Robert Downing, Colonel J. O. P. Burnside, W. A. Cook, George Donaldson, J. B. Wilson, Colonel E. Daniels, John Weyrich, J. R. Barr, and A. C. Spaulding, and secretary, E. W. Donn.

Mr. S. R. virtue of the act of the Legislative Assembly, one in the eastern, one in the western, and one in the northern part of the city; the erection of market houses in the two former, which have been paid for out of the general treasury of the District; the increased assessments of property in the neighbor-hood of Corcoran Square by reason of the location hood of Corcoran Square by reason of the location of the market there, so that the property of North Washington has not only paid its proportion for the other markets, but by this increased taxation has also paid for the ground in question.

Second—That the site is absolutely needed for a market, and is the best possible location for one, as is borne out by the fact of the large business done in the old sheds now on it, and by the persistent efforts of those interested in other markets to bring about the sale or use of "Corcoran Square" to bring about the sale or use of "Corcoran Square" for other purposes.

Third—That this site was selected after full discussion of the question of a northern market site, and was bought of Mr. Coreoran with the underwhen a new notary is not announced from the White House.

District Attorney Corkhill is quite ill would be a breach of faith to now divert it from such uses. Fourth-That, as the District has not erected a permanent market building, the citizens are willing to lease the ground and build a market, on terms which will yield a large revenue to the District, as proposed in House bill 4749, which was favorably reported at the last session by the House District Committee, by which the north half of the ground will be devoted to school purposes, while e south half will be kept for a market; and that this division was agreed upon as a compromise be-tween the conflicting claims of the schools and of those wishing to preserve a market upon the site.

The memorial closed by asking for the passage of the bill last mentioned, and that the obnoxious clause be stricken out of the District appropriation The crowd increased rapidly, and when Mr. Bond finished reading upward of fifteen hundred persons had congregated in and about the sheds, and they seemed desirous of hearing the matter discussed, judging from the frequent calls for speeches Mr. Norment said it was evident that the people of North Washington were interested in retaining the market on Corcoran Square, and he regarded the market on Corcoran Square, and he regarded the market on Corcoran Square.

which it was bought. If the high school was necessary, there were plenty of sites besides the one on Corcoran Square. Dr. De Smidte, the District chemist, has submitted to the Health Officer a report of an analysis recently made by him of snow, snow-ice, and snow-water. All are found to be filled with the District Commissioners, in which Mr. Dent stated that he was opposed to corporation markets and advised those interested in the Corcoran Square market to go in with some tion markets and advised those interested in the Corcoran Square market to go in with some company. He and others had opposed such action and had agreed to compromise on half a square for the school and half for the market, but the Commissioners had not kept faith with them, but slipped in an obnoxious clause in the appropriation bill to defeat the will of the people. He knew that the K-street market was largely interested in > thought the people most interested should have some voice in the matter. Mr. R. C. Hewitt said he had advocated a market on this square against great opposition, and was still of the opinion that Corcoran Square was the proper place for it. He inquired why all the lawyers on the school board were retained in the interest of the market companies on K street and Pennsylvania avenue? The only desire of the lat-ter was to break up the O-street market and divert ade to themselves Mr. George Donaldson said he had remained in the O-street market shed when every one else de-serted it. The first day they left, Wednesday, he sold sixty-two cents' worth of stuff, the following

> Saturday he sold $102 worth. He had been told by men in the K-street market that if they could get half square with the company they would leave and go up to 0 street. (The remarks of this speaker seemed the most relished by the crowd, as he was recognized as an old dealer.) Mr. McGuire said that the market was a convenience to the people, and the building should be erected without any further delay. It looked to him very much as though the District Committee in Courses had been paid to work against the O. in Congress had been paid to work against the O-Street market, or else, why did they not give heed to the wishes of the people most interested? In concluding, he favored the building of a market fronting on Seventh street, which should take in > the whole square.

> Mr. S. R. Bond, the last speaker, said Congress did not want to disregard the wishes of the people, but they had only heard one side of the question—from the enemies of the O-street market. The revenue derived from the sheds now in use paid the interest on the $100,000. sheds now in use paid the interest on the $100,000, and it would be a shame to cut down this income for a school site, which could be purchased anywhere in the District for one-quarter that sum. He urged his hearers to use their influence upon Congress to defeat the clause complained of, and at the conclusion of his speech the meeting adjourned.

AMUSEMENTS LAST NIGHT.

Needles and Pius at Ford's-Mary Anderson-Theatre Comique-Wilhelmj. This play, which has been one of the most decided New York successes this season, was produced for the first time in this city at Ford's Opera-House last night. The audience was large and appreciative, and there was every indication of the most perfect enjoyment. Space will not permit an extended notice of this play to-night, but hereafter a full sketch of this most enjoyable piece will be given. It should certainly be witnessed by all who desire two hours of fun and laughter. "Needles and Pins" will be repeated at the Opera-House every night this week and at the Wednesday and Saturday matinees. Next week the new sensation by Willie Edouin, titled "Dreams," will be the attraction National Theatre-Mary Anderson An audience large in numbers and enthusiastic in character greeted Mary Anderson last night at the National Theatre upon the occasion of her first appearance this season. Miss Anderson appeared as Parthenia in "Ingomar," and was the recipient of deserved applause, especially during the impassioned passages. To-night Miss Anderson will present "Evadne."

Lincoln Hall-The Wilhelmj Concert. Of the three great artists who will appear at Lincoln Hall this evening, it may be safely said that no entertainment this season has been more meritorious. The talents of Wilhelmj, Sternberg, and Miss Fritch have already been thoroughly recognized, and judgment has been passed upon their performances given during the early part of the season. The programme announced for to-night is as follows:

Three concert etudes: 1—a, D flat major (Liszt), b, C sharp minor (Chopin), c, G flat major (Moszkowski), Sternberg, 2—Grand Aria, "Ernani" (Verdi), Miss Fritch, 3—Fantasiestucck (Wilhelmi), Wilhelmj, 4-a, Spinning Song (Liszt), b, prelude (Chopin), c, impromptu, "The Hunt," by request (Rheinberger), Sternberg, 5-Mit einem gemalten Bande (Becthoven), Miss Fritch. 6-Chaconne (Bach), Wilhelmj, Theatre Comique. The large and enthusiastic audience present at the Comique last night proved that this popular resort has lost none of its interest in this community, but is rather increasing in interest and attraction. SKIMMING POLO-PLAYERS.

The Baltimore Team Wrest a Game From Their Oft Victorious Opponents. Polo on rollers is one of the attractive innovations which Superintendent Kelley has inand the large and fashionable crowd that gathered last night to witness the game between a team from the Biddle-street rink, of Baltimore, and a seven from the Washington club was an evidence of the appreciation of our citizens of this innovation.

The game was called at 5:30 sharp, and at the word play the contestants started in with such vim that "croppers" were the order of the hour, at one point as many as three players being prone on the asphalt at once.

The Washingtons forced the play from the start, and for the first five minutes of the game the ball was kept hovering in front of the Baltimore's goal in spite of their best efforts to drive it to their opin spite of their best efforts to drive it to their opponents flags. Then a smart bit of play sent the ball skimming down the field, and with a rush the Baltimores railied and scored the first goal. In rapid succession two more goals were scored, one by the Baltimores and one by the Washingtons, the spectators evineing their appreciation of the sharp play exhibited on both sides by loud and continuous applianse.

continuous applause.

When play was called at the fourth inning the visiting club, inspired by their previous successes, made short work of it, and soon sent the ball whizzing between their opponents flags, winning the match by a score of three goals to one. This is the first match in the scries that the Baltimore team 414 has won.

The names of the contestants were as follows:
Bultimores—Goal-keepers, Childs and Turner;
first cover, William Norris; second cover, William Price; fielders, Arthur Harrison, F. Johnson, and Washingtons-Goal-keepers, Garland and Webster; first cover, Riddle; second cover, Douglas; fielders, Mercer, Boyd, and Gittings.

The employees of the city post-office will make their first appearance to-day as a body in their new uniforms. A few of the number were visible A MASS-MEETING IN THE GLD SHEDS last night in blue coats and brass buttons. The new uniform is of navy blue, with sack coat and cap, and resembles that worn by the railway mail clerks. The gilded buttons are stamped with a cut of a mounted postal carrier, like that on the seal of the Post-Office Department. The innovation is due to Postmaster Ainger, who thinks that the uniforms, while giving a tidy and business-like appearance to the clerks in the office, will contribute to the efficiency of his force and facilitate the business of the office, as it will be easy to distinguish officials from outsiders. The clerks of the New York city post-office were uniformed about two years ago. The uniforms make a very fine appearance, and will, it is expected, be very becoming to the handsome officials at the city post-office.

Robert Emmet's Birthday.

The Clan-na-Gael Association will celebrate the anniversary of Robert Emmet's birthday in the usual manner. Distinguished speakers, including several members of Congress, will deliver addresses on the occasion, and give expression to American opinion touching the coercion bill, which the British government is about to pass, with the hope of crushing out the spirit of resistance to its ule in Ireland. March, but as there is a big event on that day this year the Clan-na-Gaels will probably celebrate on
